

Re-Occupancy Permits

Dear Owner:

Please do not fail to apply for re-occupancy permits whenever you have a change in occupants in unincorporated St. Louis County.

St. Louis County is striving to preserve its neighborhoods and you can help with your continued cooperation.

Failure to comply with the re-occupancy program could result in a summons to municipal court.

See inside for more details.

Thank You!

Re-Occupancy Permits

OVERVIEW

Q: WHERE DO I NEED A RE-OCCUPANCY PERMIT?

A: Throughout Unincorporated St. Louis County whenever a new occupant is involved in a rental or sale.

Q: WHEN DO I NEED A RE-OCCUPANCY PERMIT?

A: Whenever a unit has a new occupant.

Q: HOW DO I PREPARE MY UNITS?

A: Review the detailed listing of code requirements, available from Neighborhood Preservation staff, or from the Property and Roads, Neighborhood Services website at stlouisco.com. You'll find photos, a checklist and detailed information.

Q: HOW DO I GET A RE-OCCUPANCY PERMIT?

A: Step 1: When your units are ready to be inspected, apply online at stlouisco.com. Under On-line Services, go to Re-Occupancy Permits

Or in person at either the North County Government Center at 21 Village Square, near the intersection of Lindbergh & I-270.

Or the South County Center, 4556 Lemay Ferry Road, south of Lindbergh & I-255.

NOTE: You cannot apply over the telephone

Step 2: The applicant will be contacted by phone within 48 hours of the application to schedule an appointment for the inspection.

Step 3: The Inspector meets the applicant at the property and conducts an interior and exterior inspection.

Step 4: If the property passes on the first inspection, an occupancy permit is generated within 48 hours and mailed to the applicant. If the applicant wants to pick up the permit, they must call the morning after the inspection and request it.

Q: WHAT ARE THE COSTS?

A: An inspection, re-inspection, and permit for an apartment unit will cost $40.

A single-family house or condo unit will cost $80 for the initial inspection, a re-inspection, and permit. There is a $40 charge for a third inspection.

Q: WHAT EXACTLY DO THE INSPECTORS LOOK FOR?

A: County re-occupancy inspections are based upon the International Property Maintenance Code governing the maintenance of existing buildings.

An Inspector will examine the interior and exterior of the property for structural soundness as well as safety issues. Examples of what might be required include:

Elimination of overloaded wiring

Repair of leaking plumbing

Maintenance of heating equipment in good condition with proper ventilation

Repair of deteriorated walls and ceilings

Provision of safe emergency exits and smoke detectors

Repair of deteriorated roofs

Repair of deteriorated steps or porches

Repair of excessive peeling, flaking, and chipped paint

Removal of weeds, vermin, and debris outside of the unit

Maximum number of allowable occupants based upon bedroom size and total living area

APARTMENT COMPLEXES

Apartment complexes throughout St. Louis County are subject to the same provisions of the re-occupancy program as any other rental unit. However, there is an exemption from inspection that is available to developments with over nine (9) units.

If a complex, or development, passes ten inspections in a row on the first inspection within a 36 month period, the inspector may exempt randomly two-thirds of the units within that complex from the normally required on-site inspections.

The application is still required, however, and the $40 per unit fee still applies.

Newly constructed units may be exempt from a re-occupancy inspection for a period of five (5) years upon receipt of a new construction occupancy permit.

In addition to inspections of individual units, the exterior and common areas of complexes must be inspected once every two years to obtain a pre-occupancy permit. Costs are as follows:

3 to 50 units	$75.00
51 to 100 units	$125.00
101 to 200 units	$200.00
Over 200 units	$1.00 per unit
